Yesterday I went on a picnic at Sai Kung Country Park with my class. I bring a lot of food to share with my classmates. We were all so excited because it is the last picnic we are going to have in this primary school.

I was whistling a song while I suddenly wanted to record the nature around me as a memory. Unfortunately, my hands slipped and my mobile phone fell into the water, due to the heavy things I am bringing. Luckily, I didn't fall into water.

I was so sad at that moment. It was a brand-new phone I bought just the last day. I sobbed quietly. Everyone looked helpless. It made me more upset and I burst out crying.

Then, a security guard passed by, he said, "The water level here is low. You can pick up the phone by hand here. But I will help you get it. Three minutes later, he returned with my mobile phone. Luckily, the phone still works!"

I learnt that when we need to take good care of our things or we might get unexpected bad results.

Yesterday I went on a picnic at Sai Kung Country Park with my class. The weather was sunny and the sun was shining brightly we felt very lightheaded but excited, because it was very hot that day and we were sweating but we were excited for the picnic, until things turned all the way around ...

On the way there, when we were across the bridge over a river. Unluckily, my phone slipped out of my pocket and fell into the river.

Next, I shouted "oh no! my phone!". I stood there sadly and regretted about that I should have place my phone in my backpack.

Until, my teacher jumped into the river and grabbed my phone in time. Otherwise, I will have to waste my life savings to buy a new one.

At last, I have learnt that I should keep my belongings safely. Otherwise, it might be stolen or missing. That's why I should keep my belongings a safe place.

Yesterday I went on a picnic at Sai Kung Country Park with my class.

I got up super early yesterday, I was very excited about it. The weather was perfect, my classmates and I went to the park by bus. We brought lots of food such as sausages and marshmallows to make smores! It was all going good but little did I know that the world would turn upside down.

I had a mobile phone inside my pocket and I was carrying a bag full of food. When I was going over a bridge, my mobile phone fell into the lake! I tried many ways to fetch it back up but in the end, it would always fail.

My friends tried to comforting me while I just stood there without a smile on my face. I paid for my mobile phone using my own money by doing chores. My heart had shattered into piece.

At last, when I got back home, I told my parents everything. They said they will buy me a new phone! However, I have learnt my lesson to be more careful next time.

Yesterday I went on a picnic at Sai Kung Country Park with my class. The weather was great all of us were very excited. We also bought lots of snacks to the picnic, everyone was carrying handful of bags filled with supplies.

But then, while we were walking over a stone bridge, I accidentally dropped my mobile phone and it fell into the river, I tried my best to look for it in the water but it was no use.

I couldn't do anything so I just stood there sadly, not knowing what to do I cried helplessly.

But luckily, someone saw the glowing lights of the phone and went into the water to get it, soon, the phone was retrieved and put into a Jar of rice to dry. In the end, I have learnt that we should take good care of our belongings to prevent them from missing again.

Yesterday I went on a picnic at Sai Kung Country Park with my class. It was sunnt so I brought my phone to take picture of the sun. We were excited.

All of a sudden, my mobile phone fell into the water when we were crossing the bridge. I was shocked and unhappy.

We stood on the bridge and thought how we could pick up my mobile phone. However, we didn't think of any solution. Therefore, I decided to buy a new one.

After the picnic, I went to the Apple store to buy a new phone. Although I lost my phone, I have a new one so I am glad that I lost it.
