

I did my summer homework in the last minute

'Oh no! This is the last day of summer holiday but I haven't finished my homework yet!'

Everything was nice and running smoothly throughout the summer holiday until I found out that I did nothing about my summer homework. To start with, I work on my English writing homework. The task is free topic, nevertheless, I didn't have any inspiration for the writing. I tried to scan everything around me, however there was nothing good to be mentioned. Eventually, I started at the corner of my notice board, two Liverpool, open training tickets were pinned there. This recalled my memory of the experience attending the training session of that famous soccer team at Kai Tak Station. I completed the writing at the speed of light.

After that, I started to do my Chinese homework. I had to recite a well-known poem "Yellow Crane Tower" which was written by a Chinese poet Cui Hao. To memorize it was easy. I finished it in just a few minutes. After all, I read 'tons of books' for Humanities and Math's homework.

The last and the hardest one is the visual art homework. I am not good at drawing, painting or crafting. I tried my best to compose the picture and do the painting as if on the thin ice. After almost an hour, I succeeded.

When I finished the homework, it was nearly midnight. I need to go to bed immediately and decided not to procrastinate anymore in the future.

A Day Trip of Munich Zoo

In the wonderful summer holiday, I went to Munich. It was unforgettable and fun, and the most enjoyable day was going to the zoo, because I love animals very much. This was also my first trip to Europe.

First, we needed to take the underground train to Thalkirchen (Tier park). After we arrived at the station, we needed to walk for a few minutes. Then we bought tickets and went into the park. The park was beautiful when we were taking photos for the deer, suddenly some bees flew around my family and me. We were very scared. Luckily, they went away.

Then, I walked to the Giraffe zone. The giraffe was eating while I was taking photo. I saw my favourite animals, meerkat, they like digging holes. After that, I saw Kangaroos when I was walking. One of them had a baby, it was so cute. After a few second, it jumped in his mom's pouch and the kangaroos went out to the outdoor. On the opposite, there were Asian elephants and the elephants were very smelly. The elephant was much bigger than I thought there was also a small elephant, it ran to the pool to play water.

I ran to the children park and play a while. The children park was amazing. We played hide and seek. I caught my brother every time. It was very fun. Then, when I went to see lion, it slept. After, I went to polar zone, there were three polar bears, but sadly I couldn't see artic fox.

Last, I bought a doll it was a bunny and walked the whole big zoo. I hope I can come back and visit one more time.

An Amazing Trip

During the summer holiday, my parents and I went to Zhangshan and Zhuhai. I had an amazing trip.

First, we went to a famous water park in Zhangshan. The weather was gorgeous. We played on the water slides, which were as fast as lightening. Also, there was a Big Wave Bay, an outdoor wave pool where I could relax in the shallows of the beach with fresh sea breezes. At last, I tried an exciting, high-intensity raft ride with my dad. I was thrilled because I had never played before. It was a wonderful day.

The next day, the sun was shining in the cloudless sky. My parents and I decided to go prawn fishing. There were many prawns in the pool. In the beginning, I didn't know how to fish, but luckily, a staff came and taught me patiently. A moment later, I had caught a lot of prawns! Then, the staff took the prawns into the kitchen and cooked them. The prawns were mouth-watering. I ate a ton of them. Next, we went to Pokiddo play house. There were many different kinds of games. There was a special machine that made my eyes sparkle. This was because there were a lot of snacks in the machine, we needed to use our body as the claw to get as many snacks as we can. I was over the moon when I knew I got sixty-five packets of snacks. The staff said that I broke the record. I was floating on air when I heard the news.

On the last day, we tried the new "Escape Room" which was next to our hotel. There were six escape rooms. We had to choose the correct answer to be safe. If we replied the wrong answer, there will be a punishment. This was the funniest game I have ever played. I enjoyed it so much that I highly recommend playing it.

What an amazing trip.

An unexpected thing in summer

As my grandparents are taking care of my pet day Eaicai in Wuhan, my mother decided to but another pet day to walk with her every day. One Saturday, we went to the pet street to choose dog.

When we were looking for the dog shop which sells Shiba Inu. Suddenly, I saw a cat shop which I visited one month ago with my father. There are a lot of beautiful, adorable cats, so I begged my mother to stay for a while.

In the shop I saw a sleeping kitty. Its back is just like milky tea and its white belly looks like the milky cover. The clerk saw I like it so much. So she encourage me to hug the cat.

Five minutes later, my mother came in, she said today was too late and it's time to go. But I didn't want to leave. I wanted to play with this cat. At last, my mother told me that I can come and play with this cat every month.

One month later it was my birthday, we went to see the cat again. But we couldn't find it. The clerk told me that a person bought it today. I was very disappointed.

When we came home, I saw that cat was lying on the sofa. I was really surprised. I thanked my parents so much. So we named Kitty together. Now her name is Floura.

To GuangZhou Chimelong Paradise

This summer, I enjoyed an incredible trip in Guangzhou with my family.

Upon arrival, we headed straight to Guangzhou Chimelong Paradise. The first ride I tried was the Vertical Roller Coaster, which gave me an exhilarating experience!

Next, we rode the Golden Cudgel, a ride that takes you up to the sky. I soaked in the breathtaking views, but it suddenly dropped down. The mix of excitement and stunning sights was amazing.

Finally, we explored the Star Ship, an interstellar spaceship ride that transported us to another world by AI technology.

After a day packed with lots of fun, we had buffet at the Panda Hotel and stayed there for one night. All the furniture was very cute.

This trip at Guangzhou was phenomenal, I hope I can visit it again shortly.

My Summer Holiday

Summer is always a huge bubbling caldron of soup, mixed from the essence of thousands of memories. Within is the golden memory of the trip to Zhuhai and Macau, which I remember like it was yesterday.

The trip lasted four days and three nights, and on day one we arrived at Novotown, a mega size shopping mall built into a hotel, the Hyatt Regency. We checked in there, stored our luggage, and spent the afternoon exploring and playing VR games and entertainment scattered around everywhere. However, the main attraction, the Lionsgate Entertainment, had been closed. The Hyatt Regency was more luxurious than I thought, though.

On day two, we checked out and arrived at a village hotel. We put away our luggage, and went to the Zhuhai Space Museum. There are many exhibitions there, and I like the 1:1 tank model most because they are realistic, but the 4D movie theatre was disappointing. There were no VR goggles, the seats seldom moved, the content was irrelevant to military, even though a tank was on the poster, and the waiting time was a hour.

On day three, and we left Zhuhai for Macau. There, we went to a water park resort, and I had fun charging against artificial waves and going down sliders twice as fast as Ocean Park ones. We also visited the ruins of St. Paul's and a Na Zha Museum nearby.

On day four and we visited three luxurious hotels imitating famous landmarks. The Venetian Macau, which has a "river" runner thought the first floor and gondolas. The Londoner Macau has its exterior look like the Big Ben, which The Parisan Macau has replica of the Eiffel tower next to it.

Even though our trip was not perfect, I saw and experienced many things I wouldn't have in Hong Kong. What a memorable vacation!

The summer camp

Every summer, people engage in various activities. Some people travel abroad, some people stay at home and play video games and some people enjoy their time with friends and relatives in Hong Kong. How about you?

For me, this summer, I went to a three-day Summer camp in Wong Yi Chau. On the first day, we were divided in to 6 groups and we cooked our dinner by ourselves. After dinner, we played water gun and it was great fun! The next morning after breakfast, we went kayaking and paddle boarding. It for three times. On the last day of the camp, we went to the zipline training ground and we played many activities there.

It was a very interesting experience for me joining this summer camp. I have learnt that we must be brave to try different things even if it is our first time. I felt scared before playing the paddle board but the coach encouraged me to try. I had great fun in this activity at the end. Also, through this summer camp, I have gained confidence in myself and have learnt the importance of teamwork and cooperation with others. I hope I can go camping again next summer.
