

My weekend

Last weekend, it was sunny. My friends and I went to the playground called Playfield 5 in Kai Tak. It is inspired by the Five Elements of Chinese including Metal, Wood, Water, Fire and Earth.

First, I saw many facilities in the playground. There were a sandpit, a climbing wall, a slide, a swing, and a see-saw. I felt very excited. We played on the big slide. It was so tall and amazing.

Then, we played on the climbing wall. It was so challenging and difficult to climb up to the top. We didn't give up, and tried our best to reach the top. We were proud of ourselves.

My weekend

I had a wonderful weekend. I did a lot of interesting things over the weekend.

On Saturday, I woke up early because I promised to jog with my dad. The weather was cool, but I felt tired because I had finished a five-kilometer jog. In the afternoon, I played video games with my friend. In the evening, we had a delicious hotpot to celebrate the coming Mother's Day.

On Sunday, I had a basketball lesson. It was fun. I scored a lot of points. Then, I watched an exciting movie. At last, I bought two books using my pocket money.

This was my full and pleasant weekend.

My weekend

Today, my mum and I went to the swimming pool for a prestigious competition. I was excited to compete in two events: the 50m breaststroke and the 50m backstroke.

When it was my turn, I jumped into the water and swam as fast as I could. When I saw the results, I felt a bit upset. My times were not as good as I had expected before. That was the reason I didn't win any medals.

Mom hugged me and reminded me that every champion has tough days. I realized that if I want to stand on the podium, I can't give up easily. I need to practise much harder on my technique and speed.

Even though I am disappointed today, I have decided to use that feeling to work even harder during my next training session. I know that with more practice, I will get that medal next time.

My weekend

This weekend was my birthday, and I had a super fun and interesting birthday party! My family and friends came over to join the party, and we had lots of yummy food and a big cake.

We played games, listened to music, and took funny photos together. I got some really cool and amazing presents too! I like it very much!

Everyone was laughing and having a great time. I felt very happy and excited all day. It was one of the best birthdays ever, and I will remember it for a long time.

An unforgettable weekend

This weekend is Mother's Day, so we celebrated it. First, we gave presents to my mum. My younger sister's present was massaging my mum for an hour. My present was a Mother's Day card and an alarm clock. She was filled with joy.

After that, we had a yummy lunch at a wine house. One signature dish is the cheese lobster with fried noodles. All the food there was mouth-watering. We truly had a great time! Finally, we watched a funny movie. It is also very interesting! It was an unforgettable day. My family and I look forward to having an exciting celebration of the coming Mother's Day!
